Artist Profile

Sarif Miah

Sarif Miah is a Bangladeshi contemporary visual artist and doctoral researcher at the Faculty of Fine Art, University of Dhaka. He holds both a Bachelor of Fine Arts and a Master of Fine Arts and is currently pursuing a PhD in Fine Arts.

Working primarily in watercolour and acrylic, his practice is shaped by the rivers, boats, rural settlements, agricultural landscapes and working communities of Bangladesh. Through fluid washes, atmospheric colour and economical brushwork, he transforms observed moments into poetic visual narratives.

His exhibition history includes national and international presentations across Bangladesh, Mexico, Nepal, Malaysia, Sri Lanka, Indonesia, Greece, Thailand, Japan and the United States. Alongside studio practice, he participates in art camps, collaborative projects and cultural exchange programmes.

“The river is not only a landscape; it is a living archive of labour, movement, memory and belonging.”

Artist Statement

My paintings grow from close observation of the landscapes and everyday life of Bangladesh. Rivers, boats, villages, fields, markets and ordinary travellers become visual records of a culture continually shaped by water, labour and movement.

Watercolour is central to my practice because its transparency and unpredictability mirror the changing atmosphere of the river landscape. I allow washes to flow, merge and leave areas of open paper, using light as an active element rather than merely an effect. In acrylic works, I extend this interest through layered surfaces, broader tonal fields and more sustained colour.

The river appears repeatedly as both subject and metaphor. It carries livelihoods, memory, migration and the continuity of community. By painting fishermen, ferry crossings, village architecture and agricultural life, I seek to honour people whose daily experiences are often overlooked while also recording landscapes that are changing rapidly.

My aim is not to reproduce a scene literally, but to preserve its emotional atmosphere. I want the viewer to sense wind, humidity, distance, silence and human presence. Through these works, I hope to create a visual dialogue about cultural heritage, ecological awareness and the dignity of ordinary life.

PRACTICE SUMMARY

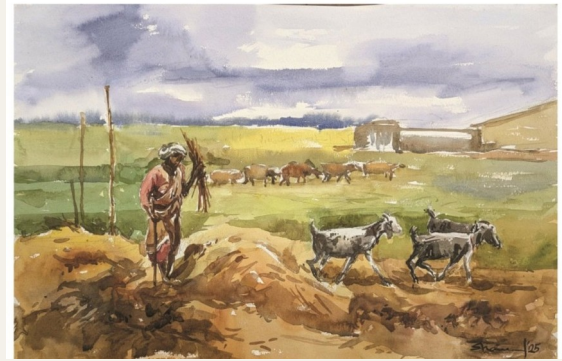

Sarif Miah's practice combines studio-based observation with direct engagement in collaborative art camps and international exchange. These environments support his continuing research into landscape, river-based communities, cultural memory and the expressive possibilities of watercolour.

Riverside Story-3

2025 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER · 15 × 22 INCHES

A ferry crossing becomes a compact theatre of movement and community. The restrained horizon and soft reflections emphasize the river as a shared route of work, travel and exchange.

Riverside Story-2

2025 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER · 15 × 22 INCHES

Figures, cattle and open fields are arranged through transparent washes and warm earth tones. The work reflects the enduring relationship between rural labour, livestock and the seasonal landscape.

Bongoan Villa-1

2026 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER · 15 × 22 INCHES

The weathered villa is rendered as a vessel of memory. Loose foliage, broken edges and open passages of paper evoke the quiet persistence of architecture within a changing rural environment.

Fishing Boat-2

2025 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER · 15 × 22 INCHES

Viewed frontally, the fishing boat emerges from a pale field of water and sky. Its vertical orientation concentrates attention on distance, reflection and the fragile balance of a working vessel.

Rural Journey

2026 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER

A procession of pedestrians, cyclists and a motorbike moves along a narrow raised path between stretches of water. The work records everyday mobility while also suggesting migration, continuity and collective endurance.

Dimensions were not supplied for this work.

Floral Studies

Floral Study-I

2025 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER

A soft vertical arrangement in which pigment blooms and dissolves into open paper, emphasizing delicacy, atmosphere and the transient nature of flowers.

Floral Study-II

2026 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER

Denser colour and a stronger central rhythm give this bouquet a vivid, celebratory presence. Transparent reds, yellows and earth tones balance spontaneity with structural control.

Dimensions were not supplied for the floral studies.

Riverside Story-2

2024 · WATERCOLOUR ON PAPER · 15
